DESCRIPTION OF THE WORK:
The PARLOR ALBUM is doubtless the most extensive ART GALLERY ever published, and by those who have examined the several portions of the work, it has been pronounced "The Olmstead Beauty." Each volume is complete in itself and will be sold separately, if desired. Sold by subscription only.
Vol. I. is devoted to Wild American Birds.
Vol. II. Contains Wild American Animals.
Vol. III. American Domesticated Birds & Animals.
Vol. IV. Foreign Birds and Animals.
Vol. V. Fishes, Reptiles and Insects.
This work will at once commend itself to the cultivated American people, and no library hereafter, be complete without this addition to its treasures; while as a parlor ornament it is unequalled by American publications.

PARTING SONG.

The long day is closing,
Ah, why should we weep?
The stars that God gives
His beloved ones sleep.

I see the wide water,
So deep and so black—
Love waits me beyond it,
I would not go back!

I would not go back
Where its joys scarce may gleam,
Where even in dreaming
We know that we dream.

For though life alic for me
All the measures of bliss,
Has it anything better
Or sweeter than this?

I would not go back
To the tortures of fear—
To the wastes of uncomfort
When home is so near.

Each night is a prison bar,
Broken and gone—
Each morning a golden gate,
On—Further on!

On, towards the city
So shining and fair;
For He that has loved me
Died for me—there.

MY VENGEANCE.

I always get my bit o' mid-day sustenance at the opposition shop—Absalom J. Runt's—for I ain't been to Slobbs' for months. If you'd like to know why, wal, or walther or no, I'll tell you. It's because some of our boys have mortally grand ideas of Derringers and Bowies, and they don't take kindly yet to the Sheriff and the Committee of Vigilance. We're a rising city, though, at West Paraisa; and what we shall be in a few years there ain't no tellin' at all, but it'll be a sight, stranger; and if you of the rotten old country don't know your teeth with envy, why, my name ain't Hiram.

You see the Great Pacific line goes thro' us clean, and we've been raisin' ever since it started. There ain't a city out West with more bars where you can have a morning painter; if there is, tell me on it. Then see what institutions we've got rising fast, from Nathan D. Anson's store, right down to the Paraisa Solid Milk and Butter Company, in Cross street, number ten 'under an' eight. Slobbs' is in Cross street, number nine, as p'raps you know. Absalom J. Runt's is in Straight street, and there's a mortal enmity between them two. It's the steam does it, I think.

I left off going to Slobbs' because I thought it was good for me, bein' a very mild, inoffensive sort of a fellow. You see there was a waiter at Slobbs' as had a sort of spite agin' me, and he'd always give me the worst cuts of the beef and the fattest of the mutton; while as to gravy, I get more gravy at Runt's in one day than them Slobbses let me have in a week. Then I allus had the wettest salt and the staled bread, and the dirtiest bit of the tablecloth; and if there was a knife as had broke loose and turned round in the huff, that knife was put for me.

We didn't like one another—me an' that waiter didn't—and we've got more enemies every day, till I see very plain as there must be a bad root. I kep' it in, though, for I thought as something might turn up, so as to let me serve Mr. Waiter out by depty.

There was another thing, too, as I didn't like at Slobbs', only it wasn't a thing, it was a great ugly customer as always sot on me—metaphorically, of course, I mean; for he was allus mockin' like of my lumble ways; and if I ever ordered my glass of anything, he'd roar instanter for a waiter and call for a bottle. He made hisself very unpleasant to me, he did, and snubbed me on politicks more than a few; but I let it all wait. I saved it up as you may suppose, thinking how much I would like to have it out with him; but I never seemed to get no chance till about a week after Slobbses came out strong with a new set of J. Puddick's Alabama 'Lecturer Plate, warranted to wear better than solid silver. Them spoons an' forks just did shine so as it seemed a pity to put 'em in shupe, or get 'em greasy, for you could see your face in 'em, so as you never got tired of voicing the expression of your features.

But even the sight of them spoons didn't settle me, and I wasn't going to be tempted into stopping, when Runt's had their doors open to have me, and there was gravy and welkum.

This citizen as allus sot on me was washed in with the name of Shiemi—Shiemi B. Parsons was his total—and his people made some cuss of a mistake or another over his name, I bet, or else they would never ha' took to this one.

We got to the climax at last, we did and left without a word, after servin' 'em both out pleasant like. It was like this, I'd had a bit of the toughest old steak I ever did stick teeth in since I chawed caoutchouc at school, and got leathery for it; and after I'd been puzzling my teeth with that bit o' steak for half an hour, who should come in but Shiemi; and the first thing he does is to hang his great coat over the rail where I was sitting, knock down my felt hat, and then laugh, flieer-like at me. I never says nothing; but that there was tougher than the steak and I couldn't swaller it a bit; but there I sits, with that coat touching of me, and the waiter half grinning at me to see me so uncomfortable. "I reckon I'd like ter claw the couple on yer up," I thinks to myself; and then, somehow, while I was a balancin' one of J. Puddick's Alabama 'Lecturer Plate Spoons on my finger, I let it slip into one o' my friend's opposite coat-pockets; when thinking as the poor thing might be cold all alone by itself, I slips in another to keep it company. "I shouldn't wonder if that there coat was to hang lop-sided after that," thinks I to myself; and while my neighbor was running his eye down the columns of the West Paraisa Tribune, I just slips a couple of forks into the other pocket, and then waits a little while till my fren' the waiter, condescended to take the bill; after which I waits a bit longer for decency sake, and then I gets up to go.

I finds my fren' the waiter just outside the swingdoor, lookin' at me very soopercilious, and I says to him: "Nice sorter get that in box No. 7."

"Very," he says shortly.

"Very true," I says. "Them's a nice set of J. Puddick's Alabama 'Lecturer Plate, too."

"Yes," he says, looking at me quite curus, as much as to say, "what's up the tree now?"

"Shall you charge them forks and spoons in his bill?" I says.

"Charge what forks and spoons in whose bill?" he says savage-like.

"Oh! I don't know—don't ask me, I only thought he might pay for them as in his pocket."

I knowed what he'd do as well as could be, and I stopped outside that swing glass door, peeping and listening.

Fust thing my fren' the waiter does is to swing his hand up against the coat-pocket, and then I sees him jump; when he goes straight up to the owner of that there coat, and he says quite fierce and loud, so as everybody began to look:

"That won't do you sir!"

"What won't do?" says the other.

"This!" says the waiter; and he puts his hand in the pocket on one side of the coat, and brings out two J. Puddick's. Then he does the same on the other side, and lays all four on the table; when, without a word, the gent leaps up, throws out one of his arms sudden, as if he wanted to get rid of it, and the waiter being right in the way, hit him on his nose, and down he went, but only to come up agin, like so much indy-rubber; when at it he goes, and catches my other fra where he could hit; and for about five minutes they were at it hard, till them that looked on thought it was about time to pull 'em away from one another, for fear there shouldn't be no waiter left, nor no reg'lar customer for him to wait on; and then I come away.

You see that was doing it fl'ersopickly. I wanted to larrup the waiter for stopping my gravy, and giving me stare instead; and I wanted to larrup my stout friend for sittin' on me; and I reckon I did it butiful, without so much as takin' a bit o' skin off my knuckles. But I ain't, as I said before, been to Slobbs' since.

THE oldest land on the globe, and that which first rose above the ocean, which the revelations of geology tell us once covered the whole earth, is the long row of hills, nowhere exceeding two thousand feet in height, that extending along the border between Canada and the United States, from the eastern part of the Dominion almost to the base of the Rocky Mountains.

THE prize of $500 offered by the Frenchmen in California for the first Prussian battle-flag captured in the war has been claimed for Ricciotti Garibaldi who captured the flag of the 61st Prussian Regiment at Dijon, January 23d.

THE Revolution declares it impossible to combine professional exertions with the ordinary duties of a man's wife. That means maidens and widows for business.

CLIPPINGS.

A Miss Phelps says there is no use quarreling with a woman, the press, a railroad company, or the telegraph.

Lady Stuart, of London, says if women become politicians and voters, she shall cease to care for the morals of her daughters.

A woman's society is trying to redeem those women with "hard, bad faces, who look desperate in their wickedness."

The Omaha Tribune calls loudly upon the 35,000 old maids in New England to consult Horace Greely and then go West and buy farms.

Gail Hamilton says one can be daughter, sister, friend, without impeachment of one's sagacity or integrity, but it is a dreadful indorsement of a man to marry him!

Some Ohio boys burned $50 worth of oak tree to get thirty cents worth of coon. Financially it was a poor speculation, but they had "heaps of fun."

There are at the present time upward of 7,000 Masonic Lodges in the United States, with an aggregate membership of 600,000, with an annual increase of about 50,000.

You can't restrain the mind from worry by main force; by holding on as you would upon a pair of runaway horses, but by getting it evenly balanced like a pair of scales, with an equal weight on either side.

An organized effort is to be made in the East to discard the present detective system, the officers of which, it is asserted, are greater rogues than, and profit more by depredations than do the thieves.

We find what we crave—fun if we have a zest for the funny; friends, if we long for friends; beauty if we love beauty; thought if we tend to thought. Slowly we build up our house, small or large. It we are refined, it is refined; if we are roomy, it is roomy.

Modesty among American women is like politeness with the French.—There is much that is true and much that is false. But both the genuine and spurious of those virtues argue a healthy state of morals—for as bad bank-notes come of good ones, so even false modesty indicates that esteem in which the genuine is held.

THERE is a vulgar, very vulgar expression which conveys a profound wisdom in describing the victim of rum, the term being "soak," or sometimes, "old sgak." Now alcohol, the main ingredient of spirituous liquors, has a known affinity for water, and the human brain being some 80 per cent. water, ardent spirits, when consumed in any but the very smallest quantities, permeate that organ, or are literally soaked in it, with the result of course that a habitual drunkard is, in science as in slang, a "soak."

THE best way to save a child from ruin is to bring it up "to help father." Make children feel that they must do something to support the family, to help along; then two feelings arise which are their salvation—those of affection and pride; for we naturally love those whom we help, or those with whom we struggle together for a desired object, and nothing so improves a child as to make him feel that he can do something and that which he does is appreciated.

GOOD.—The New York Democrat has this to say in response to a certain theory: "This theory that man is a descendant from the monkey may be all right to talk about, but if the monkeys have been watching the party which has been in power for the past few years they would be justified in committing suicide. It is a serious charge to bring against a monkey that tries to be good."

THE Scientific American says it is now impossible to construct a burglar proof safe—for the thief, with his cylinders of compressed hydrogen and oxygen, can, in a few seconds, burn holes of any size in the hardest metal—his fire drill enabling him, in a few minutes, to work his way into the strongest safe that was ever constructed.

JUST before his death Thad Stevens, "the great commoner," said it was notorious that since the breaking out of the war, the Government had been running outside the Constitution. Another prominent Republican leader said, "show me a man who talks about the Constitution, and I will show you a traitor."

A hog with eight noses is the illustration of natural history in Randolph county, Missouri.

IDAHO and Montana Territories are said to be losing population.

GOOD ADVICE.—The New York World, commenting upon the destructive lengths to which the mad demagogues who now rule the Republican organization are driving that party, and to the reaction in favor of the Constitution which is showing itself in the actions and utterances of many of the best and most trusted of the early Republicans, gives this good advice to Democrats:

The Democratic party owes it to the country and to the cause of self-government not to repress this rising independence of partisanship, and returning attachment to the Constitution by any revival of questions which have passed from the arena of practical work. It is the duty of every sincere patriot to save the country from Caesarism. To that end it is a duty to meet all men with a hearty welcome, of whatever faith or association in the past, who are ready to work for the overthrow of the corrupt combination by which we are ruled and cursed, for the success of genuine reforms, affecting practical questions of the present and future, and for the restoration of the Constitution to its rightful supremacy. Let men like Morton and Butler, Cameron and Chandler, go on laboring to revive old issues, and to force upon the Democrats the same controversies wherein the Republicans have hitherto prevailed. This is manifestly the only policy which gives them a chance to retain their grasp upon the Government and to flch the liberties and earnings of the people. But no true Democrat should help them in their scheme. They cannot ask more effective allies than those who persist in forcing obsolete or irrelevant questions upon public attention, or by acts or deeds of violence help to fan once more into flames the dying embers of civil strife. With Grant and his coadjutors, war is a necessity. Every Democrat, on the contrary, may ardently pray, "Let us have peace!"

IMPORTANT TO SETTLERS.—We have received, says an exchange, from Alfred Bannister, U. S. Deputy Surveyor at Alameda, a circular relating to the payment of surveys of land, of considerable importance to settlers. It reads as follows: "By a law passed at the last session of Congress, money deposited for surveys of the public lands is allowed to go to the credit of the settlers, on their payment to the Receiver. For instance: five or six settlers on an unsurveyed township or fractional township, can deposit $100 each with the Sub-Treasurer, have the land surveyed, prove up their claims and pay for their land, deducting the amount of their deposits. Thus the survey costs them nothing."

PROVIDENTIAL CARE.—"Who is it that waters the field of corn upon the Sabbath morning as upon the Saturday night? Who is it that makes the grass to grow in Sabbath sunshine as well as amid Saturdays rains? Who is it that hears the cry of the raven on Sunday morning and feeds it? Who is it that keeps up the pulsation of every heart, from which, if God were to withdraw His finger for a moment, each heart would be still, and life would instantly depart? In our hospitals, wards and sick-rooms; in the broken limb, where the bone is gradually united; in the severed muscle, where a mediatorial substance is put forth that repairs it; in the health that returns to the withered frame—in all these our Father worketh, hitherto, on Saturday and Sunday, and on all days."—Cumming.

HUSBANDS ought "to keep out of the kitchen." A husband who did not, writes thus of the consequences: "I found fault some time ago with Maria Ann's custard pie. Maria made the pie after my receipt. It lasted longer than any other pie we ever had. Maria set it on the table every day for dinner, and you see I could not eat it because I forgot to tell her to put in any eggs or shortening. It was economical, but in a fit of generosity I stole it from the pantry and gave it to a poor little boy in the neighborhood. The boy's funeral was largely attended by his former playmates. I did not go myself."

THE California Pioneer Silk Growers and Silk Manufacturing Co-operative Union has filed its certificate of incorporation in the Clerk's Office, Alameda county.

The Fresno Expositor

COUNTY OFFICIAL PRESS.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 10, 1871.

AGENTS:

The following gentlemen are authorized to receive and receipt for subscriptions to the Expositor: O. H. BATES, S. H. HILL, Kingston; JOHN BARTON, Kings River; W. C. CALDWELL & S. R. COCKRILL, Centerville; A. KENNEDY, Jones Ferry; F. JENSEN, Big Dry Creek; LEROY DENNIS, Buchanan; J. V. SHANNON, At Large. Parties desiring to subscribe for our paper may apply to either of the above gentlemen, or they may forward their names and money to us per Express at our expense.

WHAT DOES IT MATTER?—Recently the people of Arizona applied to General Sherman for more troops to be sent to that Territory to protect them from the depredations of the savage Apaches, who seem of late to be more blood-thirsty and relentless in their war against the whites than ever before. The request was refused these insignificant white people by the General, who said that "Congress had so diversified the use of the army and increased the necessity for it, while reducing its capacity, that he had no more troops to send to Arizona. All that could be spared must be sent to the South." He might have added, "to protect negroes in their lawless raids on the whites, and maintain Ulisses I. on his sable throne." A Radical exchange, the New York Sun, in commenting on this matter says: "The troops are to be sent South to carry out the Ku Klux Force bill and put down insurrection and rebellion where none exists, except the universal political insurrection against Grant's Administration. This is to be suppressed by securing delegates to the Republican National Convention, and by securing for him the Electors of those States in 1872, although the majority of their people are against him. If this can be done, what matters it whether or not a few thousand people, more or less are murdered and scalped in Arizona?"

ALIVE AGAIN.—We are happy to inform the many anxious friends of Dr. Livingstone, the great African explorer, that late advices from Zanzibar announce that he is in the land of the living but in destitute circumstances. For the last four or five years every two or three months the telegraph has regularly brought the news, alternately, of the death, or resuscitation of this great traveler. He is the most dead man that we have ever heard of, but appears to have more lives than fable assigns to a cat. No information has ever been vouchsafed by the telegraph as to the process pursued in resuscitating this individual—whether, like the phoenix he burns himself up and then rises again from his own ashes, or whether some new-fangled process is followed. We shall endeavor to keep our readers posted in regard to the rapid transitions of the Doctor from life to death, in future.

LATEST advices from China, via London, state that the Imperial Government has made a demand on foreign ambassadors: That schools for the education of females be abolished; that teachings to male subjects of the Empire of all doctrines opposed to those of Confucius be forbidden; that missionaries shall be considered Chinese subjects, and that in the capacity of ambassadors they are also notified that the attendance of women upon religious services is one of the occasions for the recent massacre of foreigners, and that though the events cannot but be deplored by the Imperial Government, compensation for their commission is absolutely refused.

THE CONNECTICUT ELECTION.—After a number of recounts, and throwing out a number of votes the Radicals have succeeded in throwing the election into the Legislature. This will give the election to Jewell, Republican. English, according to the original returns, had a majority somewhere in the neighborhood of two hundred, by some gerrymandering process the Republican election committees have thrown out votes enough to defeat him.

A NORTH CAROLINA paper says: "It is reported that Holden is about to settle in New Jersey. If he does, the Governor of that State should be permitted to suspend the writ of habeas corpus."

To this the Courier-Journal responds: "No, he should simply be permitted to suspend Holden's corpus."

PERSONAL.—Mr. E. T. Dewey, publisher of the Visalia Delta, paid us a visit last week. He was on a business tour through this county. He has just enlarged and otherwise improved his paper. The Delta is a good local paper, but politically it is very fishy.

THE Tulare Times apparently favors the renomination of Axtell for Congressman from this District. Up this way the general feeling is strongly in favor of having Axtell stay at home.

A SAN DIEGO paper wants the Seventeenth Judicial District divided. It says the business is too much for one man to attend to.

THAT PROCLAMATION.

On the 3d instant Rex Ulisses I. issued his edict which is to set in motion the mighty machinery of the Ku-Klux force bill. He says:

"The Act of Congress entitled 'An Act to enforce the provisions of the XIV. Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and for other purposes,' being a law of extraordinary public importance, I consider it my duty to issue this my proclamation, calling the attention of the people of the United States thereto, enjoining upon all good citizens and especially upon public officers, to be zealous in the enforcement thereof, and warning all persons to abstain from committing any of the acts thereby prohibited. The law of Congress applies to all parts of the United States, and will be enforced everywhere, to the extent of the powers vested in the Executive; but inasmuch as the necessity therefor is well known to have been caused by persistent violations, chiefly, of the rights of citizens of the United States, by combinations of lawless and disaffected persons in certain localities lately the theater of insurrection and military conflict, I do particularly exhort the people of those parts of the country to suppress all such combinations by their own voluntary efforts, through the agency of local laws, and to maintain the rights of all citizens of the United States, and to secure all such citizens an equal protection of the laws. Fully sensible of the responsibility imposed upon the Executive by the Act of Congress, to which public opinion is now called, and reluctant to call into exercise any of the extraordinary powers thereby conferred upon me, except in cases of imperative necessity, I do, nevertheless deem it my duty to make known that I will not hesitate to exhaust the power thus vested in the Executive whenever and wherever it shall be necessary to do so, for the purpose of securing to citizens the rights guaranteed to them by the Constitution and laws. It is my earnest wish that peace and cheerful obedience to the laws may prevail throughout the land, and that all traces of our late unhappy civil strife may be speedily removed. These ends can be easily reached by acquiescence in the results of the conflict, now written in our Constitution, and by due and proper enforcement of equal, just and impartial laws in every part of our country. The failure of local communities to furnish such means for the attainment of the results so earnestly desired, impose upon the national Government the duty of putting forth all its energies for the protection of its citizens of every race and color, and for the restoration of peace and order throughout the entire country."

If this pronouncement is not imperial enough in nature to suit the most ardent admirer of absolutism, we do not think satisfaction could be easily given. He says in substance that he will give local authorities a chance to assert their power first, but they failing or neglecting so to do, then he will use all the strength of the national Government to do so. He is a liar. Already his armies are being made ready to invest the Southern States, where comparative peace exists, notwithstanding the white people are almost crushed to the earth by the thieving negroes, and their unprincipled white advisers. Grant utters a falsehood, bare and brazen when he says he desires the obliteration of all traces of the late unhappy civil strife. He nor his party do not desire anything of the kind. Remove those traces and you remove the Radical party. It is a party of strife. Born of discord; cherished in its infancy by hatred; it assumed its present hideous form by spilling the blood of thousands of the best and noblest of our nation. Every tie of the Radical party is a bond of blood and corruption. The Act upon which this proclamation is based is an insult to the nation. Its title is singularly appropriate: "An Act to enforce the provisions of Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and for other purposes." The other purposes for which this Ku-Klux bill is designed are manifold, but the grand purpose is the continuance of the Republican party in the ascendancy, and the perpetuation of the Grant dynasty. This the Radical plotters intend to do at all hazards. They never intend to relinquish power until forced to do so by the overwhelming persuasion of glistering bayonets.

THE COTTON ENTERPRISE.—We paid a visit to the ranch of the Messrs. Buckley on Wednesday last where we found J. M. Strong hard at work planting the crop. The work of last week was commenced on Tuesday of last week, and the first put into the ground had sprouted and was making its appearance above the surface at the time of our visit. Owing to the lateness of the season the enterprising company will not get the full amount of land planted they intended, but will be able to fully test the question as to whether or not cotton can be profitably produced in this portion of the State. The land was well selected, properly plowed and prepared for planting, and we have no doubt will produce a large crop of the valuable staple.—Snelling Argus.

THE CASE OF MCCRODY.—On Thursday last J. G. McCurdy was surrendered to the Sheriff by his bondsmen and the same night he was consigned to the penitentiary, in charge of Deputy Bowen. Mr. Bowen telegraphed on Tuesday last that he had reached San Quentin in safety. J. C. Edwards, it will be remembered had been surrendered and sent below one week before. This has probably been the result of an advance to a more healthy tone of the public mind. Throughout the State the people are becoming impressed with the necessity of some effort in behalf of the safety of human life. The counsel for McCurdy should have thought of such a thing as that of raising the question as to whether the prisoner had pled guilty in open court would seem at first thought rather startling. It can hardly be possible that the courts are conducted in such a slovenly way as to leave a doubt as to whether the prisoner plead guilty. Nor can we believe that any California Court is so ignorant of the law as to not know what constitutes a plea of guilty. We therefore look upon the effort to deny the plea as an insult to the dignity of jurisprudence.—Visalia Delta.

THE MOST IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT

SEWING MACHINES!

Can be seen in use at the

HOWE SEWING MACHINE OFFICE,

NO 111 KERNAN STREET.

READ THE FOLLOWING ENDORSEMENT, SIGNED BY

OUR MOST PROMINENT PHYSICIANS:

We, the undersigned, practicing physicians of San Francisco, having examined and witnessed the operation of the

"MILLS ADJUSTABLE TREADLE"

For Sewing Machines, take pleasure in giving our testimony to the great value of the improvement, in a sanitary point of view. The peculiar feature of this new treadle is that the foot-board is made adjustable, both vertically and horizontally, so that the center of motion of the foot may always be brought to coincide with the center of motion of the treadle, and hold the foot thus permitting the feet to move on their natural centers without having first to overcome the inertia and weight of the heavy limbs.

In our opinion it possesses the following important advantages over the ordinary treadle:

First, it saves the excessive labor and waste of power consumed in keeping up the rapidly alternating motion of the lower limbs and body.

Second, it avoids the frequent and serious injury to female health resulting directly from that motion.

By the general adoption of the treadle we believe very serious objection to the foot power sewing machine will be removed, and that so far from being prejudicial to the health of the operator, its use will prove as harmless and positively beneficial as other physical exercise, tending directly to develop the muscles of the calf of the leg, strengthen the ankle, restore the elasticity of the foot, and promote circulation in the extremities. Signed,

H. H. TOLLAND, M. D., President Toland Medical College.

J. P. WHITE, M. D., Emeritus Professor of Physiology, University of the Pacific.

L. C. LANE, M. D., Prof. of Surgery, University of the Pacific.

I have carefully examined the new treadle attached to the Howe Sewing Machines, and consider it a most valuable improvement, doing away with most of the motion of the back and pelvis, which is unavoidable in operating the old style treadle, and which has proven so detrimental to health. I cheerfully recommend it to those who work much with sewing machines, believing that it will save them much trouble.

A BLIND MAN'S FIRESIDE.

Talk to me, oh ye eloquent flames,
Gossips and comrades fine!
Nobly knows me poor and blind,
That sits in your merry shine.
Nobly knows me but my dog;
A friend I never seen,
But that comes to my call, and loves me
For the sympathies between.
'Tis pleasant to hear in the cold dark night,
Murmuring higher and higher,
The crackling, chattering, spluttering,
Flames in the wintry fire.
Half asleep in the corner,
I hear you prattle and snap,
And talk to me and my dog,
That dozes in my lap.
You laugh with the merriest laughter;
You dance, you jest, you sing,
And suggest in the wintry night,
The joys of coming Spring.
Not even the lack on the fringe of the cloud,
Nor the thrush on the hawthorn bough,
Singeth a song more pleasant, to hear
Than the song you're singing now.
Your voices are all of gladness;
Even they seem to say:
After the evening—morning!
After the night—the day!
After this mortal blindness,
A heavenly vision clear,
The soul can see when the eyes are dark!
Awake! let the light appear!

DAMON AND PYTHIAS.

THE "FAT CONTRIBUTOR'S" VERSION OF THE STORY.

These worthies lived in Syracuse (N. Y.) and were consequently known as "Salt Pinters." Their back doors fronted on each other, and they were the warmest kind of friends, even in mid-Winter. Their friendship dated back to the days of sunny childhood. If one of them had anything he always wanted the other to have some of it. If, for instance, Damon got a kicking from the schoolmaster, he wasn't satisfied until Pythias got one, too. Pythias got the measles once, and he went right off and gave some of them to Damon. They shared everything together. Damon found his father's whiskey bottle one day, but he didn't keep it all to himself. No, he went and got Pythias drunk. If Pythias ran all night, Damon kept it up all the next day, so that the days of Damon were equal to the Knights of Pythias.

Damon was a member of the City Council of Syracuse, while Pythias belonged to the National Guards. It appears that one, Dionysius, had been scheming to have the Council declare him Mayor of Syracuse without a vote of the people, and succeeded one morning when Damon was absent. Ascertaining what had been done, Damon hastened to the Council Chamber, Damon Dionysius and his fellow councilmen who sustained the fraud. Meeting Dionysius he attempted to stab him with an ivory paper cutter, remarking as he did so—

"By all the gods! one blow
And Syracuse is free!"

(There had been a heavy duty on Syracuse up to that time, owing to the salt monopoly, and Damon was a free trader.) He might have freed his beloved city from the tyrant, had he not stopped to "buy all the gods" and blow about it. He was secured by the Mayor's new police, and was condemned to death.

Pythias had a sweetheart named Calanthe, whom he loved next to Damon. Their wedding day was appointed, and just as their marriage ceremony was being performed, news was brought to Pythias of what had occurred, and, leaving Calanthe only about half married, he hastened to the station-house where Damon was confined, arriving just as he was being led forth to execution. Damon was petitioning Dionysius for a few hours respite, in order that he might see his family; but the tyrant wouldn't listen to it.

Pythias then offered to take Damon's place for the space of six hours, and if at the expiration of that time his friend returned not, he would perish in his stead, hoping to die if he wouldn't. The proposition was accepted, and Damon hurried away to his family, who lived away out in the vicinity of the salt works.

Sad indeed was the parting of Mr. and Mrs. Damon. The interview was necessarily brief. He had to hurry back, or he wouldn't be in season to see himself die. Damon was greatly affected, and when he tore himself away there was a dame on the floor, in a swoon.

"Fetch up the old mare," yelled Damon to his hired man Lucullus. He was excited because, you see, it was getting very late and he didn't want to keep the executioner waiting on his account. Then it was Lucullus acknowledged that, in order to save his master, he had given the old mare a dog button, and the Coroner was even then sitting on the body. Furious at the thought of not reaching Syracuse in the allotted time, and knowing how mortified Pythias would be if compelled to die in consequence, he seized Lucullus to rend him in pieces. It would have been good by Lucullus had not a horseman appeared at that moment whom Damon persuaded to dismount by taking him gently by the throat. Then mounting in his stead, he dashed away toward the city.

In the meantime every preparation had been made for the execution of Pythias. Time was up and no word from Damon. The people sneered and asked if anybody supposed Damon was such a fool as to come back again; and even Pythias began to fear that his old pard had gone back on him.

Suddenly a great shout was heard. A great cloud of dust was seen to rise in the direction of the salt works. It approached rapidly, and in a short time Damon came tearing in on horseback at a pace that would have made Phil Sheridan so ashamed of himself he would have ridden "twenty miles away" and hid.

There was just a shade of disappointment on Damon's face when he saw that Pythias still lived; but jumped off his horse, threw a hand-spring on the scaffold, and shouted: "Bring on your cleaver! Damon is on deck."

Dionysius was so struck with this exhibition of friendship that he pardoned them both at once. They then both fell into each other's arms, exclaiming: "Pythias!" "Damon!" (Curtain falls.)

HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

A WHOLESOME FIELD DRINK.—The excessive use of cold water during the sweltering heat of summer often results in serious and alarming illness. It is therefore advisable that some beverage should be substituted for it, of which those oppressed can partake with safety. For this purpose I am aware of, no better or more refreshing drink than the following: Take of the best white Jamaica ginger root, carefully bruised, two ounces; cream of tartar, one ounce; water, six quarts; to be boiled about five minutes, then strained; to the strained liquor add one pound of sugar, and again place it over the fire, keep it well stirred until the sugar is perfectly dissolved, and then pour into an earthen vessel, into which you have previously put two drachms of tartaric acid, and the rind of one lemon, and let it remain until the heat is reduced to a lukewarm temperature; then add a teaspoonful of yeast, stirring them well together and bottle for use. The corks must be well secured. The drink will be in high perfection in four or five days. This is a very refreshing and wholesome beverage, and one which may be partaken of without any unpleasant results, even in the hottest weather.

A NEW FOOD FOR HORSES.—It is said that the Arabs cultivate a shrub called 'Caroubien,' which is found to be a valuable adjunct in the feeding of horses and mules—five pounds of it with four of barley being the feed. The plant only flourishes in very strong soil and a dry climate. A shrub twenty feet high will cover a space thirty feet in diameter, and yield some thirty pounds of fruit. It is coming into use in France for finishing off fat stock—many preferring it to barley. Why do not some of our California horticulturists make an effort to secure some of the plants, which are indigenous to the dry plains of Africa, and try them upon the parched lands of this State. There are many plants, suitable as food for both man and beast, which might undoubtedly be cultivated to advantage in the driest portion of our interior and southern valleys.

TO MAKE STRAWBERRY WINE.—Nothing can be more delicious, nothing can be more healthful. In all cases of dyspepsia or slow, nervous fevers, or of impure blood, or of ill-regulated bilious apparatus, it will be found a great palliative, and a powerful aid to other remedies of a more decided character. Three quarts of strawberries make one quart of juice. Add three quarts of water, and three pounds of the best sugar. Use a clean, sweet cask, and leave the bung out for fermentation. When the fermentation subsides close the cask tightly and the wine is ready for use. Tightly stoppered it will keep for ten years if necessary, but it is generally found too attractive to keep so long a time.

A WRITER in an exchange says: Rye and wheat bran contain nearly one and a half as much albuminous bodies as flour, twice the quantity of fat of the whole grain, that of phosphoric acid and potassa, and four times as much lime and magnesia. The breeder and stock-raiser thus possesses in bran a feed that surpasses rape and linseed oil cakes in nutritive value. How highly these are estimated is well known. By mixing bran with straw and hay, which are deficient in phosphates, a most nutritious fodder for young and milking cattle may be made.

A HUSBAND DOOR MAT.—Take an inch board the size you wish your mat; dress it neatly; rule it each way, drawing the lines about an inch and a quarter apart; bore a hole with a 1/4-inch augur in each square; double a piece of broom twine, pass it through the holes, one at a time, have the husks dampened, take a sufficient quantity to fill the hole very tight, pass it through the loop of twine, draw it through until the double end of the husk is about an inch and three-quarters long, draw the twine out and proceed in the same way until the holes are all filled. Then take a sharp knife and cut the double husks, spread them apart, trim the uneven side, tramp it down, and set it where it is to be used, either side up.

CAN the appointment of a colored page in Congress be considered the turning of a new leaf.

BORGIA COME AGAIN.—The London Medical Press and Circular has the following:

A very startling communication has been made to us by a gentleman occupying a most important post in this country, of the existence of a most deadly poison, by the inhalation of which, simply through the medium of a letter sent by post in the ordinary way, the reader will suddenly drop down dead, with the symptoms of asphyxia. The position and acquisitions of our informant should place his evidence beyond suspicion; nevertheless, before giving entire credence to such a startling report, we are anxious to obtain confirmatory evidence from any of our readers, in whose minds suspicions of foul play have arisen when investigating cases of sudden death and what such symptoms were. Certainly, the following clipping from a Canadian paper, relative to the recent sudden death of a person of note, looks very ugly: "He received an anonymous letter, and while reading it he fell down insensible, and shortly after expired. It is said the letter contained some poisonous substance."

A COLORED member of the Texas Legislature was met upon the street with a large roll of greenbacks in his hand looking at his pile, and cackling so loud that he attracted the attention of a bystander, who said to him, "What are you laughing at, Jim?" Jim replied, "You see that money?" "Yes." "Well, Boss, I just got that for my vote; I've been bought four or five times in my life, but this is the first time I ever got de cash myself."

A WESTERN editor had a remarkable dream. Here it is:

I had a dream the other night,
When everything was still,
I dreamed that each subscriber
Came up and paid his bill,
Each wore a look of honesty,
And smiles we round each eye,
And as they handed o'er the stamps,
They yelled, "How's that for high?"
"We would like to realize just such a dream."

THE Presbyterian churches of San Francisco have resolved to extend an invitation to the General Assembly of their church in the United States, to meet in San Francisco in May, 1872.

One of the religious papers, in describing Elder Jacob Knapp, says, with delicate flattery: "He is good for me, 7 years yet of usefulness with a Prince of Darkness. It is interesting to listen to an evangelist who can tell of hell as confidently as if he had been born and brought up within its limits, and speaks of the devil as naturally and familiarly as if he were an old acquaintance."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD!

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Invered cases of scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous eruptions and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses. Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and untold tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develops in one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or within the veins. In the latter, tubercles may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief and at length cure by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, or Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and other visible forms of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of scrofulous matter in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Constipation or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. The SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are Languid and listless, Despondent, the Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fear, or any of the affections symptomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.
